

Fierce Battle Rages as Yanks Seize Pacific Isles

Meandering

By WASH FAYETTE

It's a mighty poor newspaper man who does not have a "nose for news," but I know you will agree with me that it was not difficult to run this yarn down by the scent, and I really mean that literally.

As I was coming down Fayette Street I smelled the odor of skunk, and instantly figured that Rumer Brothers (Herbert and Jobe) had reopened their hide buying office in the Burke property, 50 feet back of the Try-Me Taxi office on South Fayette Street.

Well, I just followed the smell, which was dead easy, and sure enough, Herbert and Jobe were on the job, taking care of muskrat, opossum, mink, raccoon and, yes, skunk hides.

Years ago trappers had to skin, stretch and dry the pelts of the animals they captured before a buyer would even look at the pelts, but not any more! The animals are brought to the Rumer Brothers' place just as they have been killed, although some trappers still skin, stretch and cure the sides before selling them.

A tubful of muskrat carcasses bore evidence of the large amount of skinning that had just been done, and a half dozen "rats" lay on the floor to be skinned.

While Herbert was talking he picked up one of the rats, flourished a long bladed skinning knife, and Jobe took the rat by the hind legs to hold it for the removal of its hide. A few expert swipes of the knife, a pull, careful skinning about the head, and the pelt was thrown with the others.

I was so amazed with the rapidity of the muskrat skinning process, that I pulled my watch and timed the next skinning, and found it was only 45 seconds from the time Herbert started until the skin was removed, and he did not know I was holding the watch on him.

Fur prices are higher this year, and judging by the "take" so far, I am certain the catch this season will be a large one. Incidentally, Rumer Brothers have been buying furs for 27 years.

The next time you find a banded pigeon, don't think it is a carrier pigeon bearing an important message.

Chances are the pigeon is no more of a carrier pigeon than a banded pheasant is a carrier pheasant, or a tagged raccoon is a carrier raccoon.

Pigeons and other birds as well as animals and fish are marked in various ways to learn their migratory habits, and all persons who kill game birds or animals that are tagged should send the tags to the Conservation Division at Columbus, so a record of the bird or animal may be available to those who tagged it.

Likewise, bands from pigeons may be sent to the department so that the point where the bird was found may be learned by those who banded the bird.

If the pigeon is not dead, take a record of the bands and send the information to the department, with date and place where taken.

CHRISTMAS BONUS BOOST OUT, SAYS LABOR BOARD

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The regional War Labor Board will reject applications of business to pay larger Christmas bonuses than they paid last year or to make such payments when they did not make them last year, Chairman Lewis M. Gill says.

"There is no use of applying," he declared in a week-end statement.

However, WLB approval is not required for bonus payments no larger than those of last year, Gill added.

JAP SEA POWER IS MENACED BY DARING ATTACK

Marines and Soldiers Land On Two of Gilbert Islands Under Heavy Barrage

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Talk of a Central Pacific drive has flamed into fierce action—invasion by American Marines and soldiers of Makin and Tarawa in the Gilberts where they are fighting doggedly for a spearhead aimed at the heart of Japan's sea power.

On the low, sandy shores where natural protection is scant for attacker and defender alike, the Americans punched out several beachheads against strong resistance at Tarawa, key enemy air base in the Gilberts, and at Makin, a seaplane harbor, where they met moderate opposition.

Land Under Barrage

Their landing covered by naval units which laid down aerial and surface bombardments, the Americans apparently ran into no Japanese sea forces although the strategic importance of the Gilberts may well draw the enemy's fleet into battle yet.

For 1,600 statute miles to the west lie the heavily fortified Truk Islands—vital link to the Nipponese sea power—and to the north the Marshalls where the enemy holds powerful air bases at Jaluit and Wofje.

The Americans landed Saturday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, announced 24 hours later in a communique which said "fighting continues."

The Makin landings presumably were made on Butaritari, largest island of the atoll, approximately ten miles long and a thousand yards wide. Butaritari probably has seaplane facilities in an excellent anchorage surrounded by Coral reefs; a radio station, three wharves and a stone pier.

The Tarawa landings probably were made on Betio Island which has an excellent triangular airfield long enough for medium bombers.

Supporting the Marines and soldiers were artillery and other units but before them was an enemy who had had time to set up artillery and burrow shallow foxholes in the sand.

Islands Blasted First
Week-long bombings of both the Gilberts and the Marshalls preceded the landings, and even as they came army Liberators panted the Marshalls to help divert part of the enemy's air force. Some overhead opposition was reported.

By the invasion—the first by the United States north of the equator since the Japs' sneak on Pearl Harbor—the Allies spread their attacking arc from New Guinea northeast through the Solomons 1,100 miles to a flange

MAIN ROAD TO TOKYO SEEN ON ALEUTIANS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—(AP)—"The main route to Tokyo is through Alaska and the Aleutians," declares Brig. Gen. Elwyn D. Post, Chief of Staff of the army's Alaskan department.

Visiting his parents on a week-end leave, the 44-year-old general who helped direct offensive actions that retook Attu and Kiska told an interviewer "whether or not the route will be used is entirely up to higher authority."

"Oho families with boys in Alaska can be thankful they are up there," Gen. Post remarked. "Alaska is the healthiest country in the world."

Fights in Congress Postponed By Death Of Two Lawmakers

Tussle With Administration Over Curb for Cost of Living Had Top Billing With Those Over Mine Wages and Taxes Added Attractions When Recess Taken as Mark Of Respect To Two Representatives

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A powerful coalition's plan to seek quick House passage of a measure outlawing the administration's subsidy program marked time today as a result of the death of Rep. Ditter (R., Pa.) in a plane crash.

Speaker Rayburn (D., Tex.) announced the House would suspend business for 24 hours in tribute to the Pennsylvania lawmaker killed yesterday when a navy craft in which he was traveling fell near Columbia, Pa.

The decision delayed by one day the showdown on the subsidy bill, and the scheduled start of debate on the new tax bill.

The subsidy vote had been in prospect for this afternoon.

Henry B. Steagall (D., Ala.), chairman of the House Banking committee, died unexpectedly today.

Steagall was the leader of the battle in the House against the administration's food subsidy program. He was born at Colpton in Dale County, Ala., May 19, 1873, served in the Alabama legislature, and had represented the Third Alabama district for almost 30 years.

Ready For Battle
Congress had rolled up its sleeves for a big week and got ready for at least two tough tussles with the administration.

Both clashes will get underway in the House, already sporting a put-this-in-your-pipe-and-smoke-it air. The House is expected to pass the measure extending life of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) but banning food subsidies which the administration says would hold down retail prices.

Then it will debate the new tax bill, now standing at $2,142,000,000—slightly more than a fifth of the $10,500,000,000 asked by the treasury.

As labor groups, coal mine operators and coalition forces teamed up on Capitol Hill this prospect developed:

1. Passage by the House appeared certain of a measure extending the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) but banning food subsidies.

2. Debate starts Wednesday or Thursday on the second wartime revenue measure calling for $2,140,000,000, approximately one-fifth the amount the administration sought to draw off the taxpayers' income and apply to the cost of the war.

3. A bipartisan bloc of legislators appeared strong enough to

BRICKER HEADQUARTERS

TO BE IN AIU BUILDING

COLUMBUS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker said today national headquarters for his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination would be set up in the 50-story AIU Tower here this week.

No manager yet has been selected, he added.

A newsman asked if Don Power, the Governor's former secretary, might be selected.

"No," Bricker replied.

HUNTER PAYS $305 FINE

NAZIS HIT IN DRIVES

POLES BRISTLE WITH REDS NEAR

Must Come as Allies When Nazis Chased Over Border

By FLORA LEWIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Polish sources that can not be otherwise identified declared today the Russian army must enter Poland as an ally, and not as a conqueror, or else face desperate resistance by the Poles themselves.

Determination to fight back unless the Soviets reestablish diplomatic relations with the London Polish-government-in-exile was voiced in responsible quarters here as Red troops plunged closer to the old Polish frontier, established in 1921.

Despite a recent statement by Constantine Oumansky, Soviet ambassador to Mexico City, indicating Russia still recognizes the western boundary drawn with the Germans in 1939, the Poles maintain only the pre-war frontier is valid.

The Polish position as stated by an authoritative source who requested anonymity pending clarification of the stand to be taken by the Allied high command is:

1. If military necessity requires Soviet occupation of Polish territory, there must be an understanding between the two governments based on resumption of normal diplomatic relations.

WHISKEY SHORTAGE RELIEF POSSIBLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Early release of some 4,000,000 cases of whiskey to help relieve the shortage in monopoly states and other areas was in prospect today.

The National Distillers Products Corp. announced the signing of an agreement between itself and 14 associates with Allied Mills calling for the purchase of assets and inventory of Century Distilling Co., Allied Mills subsidiary, owners of about 250,000 barrels of whiskey.

If the proposal is approved by allied stockholders, Seton Porter, president of National Distillers, said, the purchasers would "initiate a program of bottling which will permit a more rapid distribution of much needed supplies of whiskey to the consuming public."

STATE HOSPITAL PROBE

IS ASKED OF GOVERNOR

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Cleveland Church Federation will ask Gov. John W. Bricker to appoint a committee to investigate conditions at Cleveland State Hospital, Dr. D. R. Sharpe, federation president, said today.

Dr. Sharpe added the federation would request that no member of the state welfare department be represented on the committee. Gov. Bricker had been invited to a meeting of the federation last night but did not reply, Dr. Sharpe reported.

Congressman Killed In Navy Plane Crash

COLUMBIA, Pa., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A Navy plane, circling helplessly and dropping flares through a heavy rain falling on this Lancaster County town, crashed and burned near here last night carrying Rep. J. William Ditter and Lieut. Com. J. J. Mansure to their deaths.

A few hours earlier an Army transport smashed into Locust mountain near Tamaqua, 100 miles north in the anthracite region. The plane became a blazing funeral pyre for seven occupants whose names were withheld by the third service command pending notification of next of kin. Two soldiers found wandering dazedly a half mile from the wreckage were taken to nearby Coaldale Hospital.

Congressman Ditter, 55, a resident of Ambler, Pa., and a ranking Republican in the House, was en route with Commander Mansure from the Squantum, Mass., naval air base to the navy base at Willow Grove, Pa., 80 miles from where the plane crashed. Mansure, 55, was executive officer at Willow Grove.

The Navy was unable to say why Ditter was aboard the plane, but it was pointed out congressmen frequently travel on military planes when on government missions. Ditter was closely linked to naval operations through his handling of Navy finance matters as a member of the House appropriations committee.

An eyewitness to the crash, Arthur E. Schaffer of Columbia, said he saw the single-engine Navy plane, its motor sputtering, circle low over a church in the nearby hamlet of Kinderhook. The plane zoomed upwards 100 feet, then a short distance further crashed through some trees, burying its motor in the ground.

A. A. Seamer, a neighbor of Schaffer who was among the first to reach the scene, saw the bodies in the flames but said "it was too hot" to get at them.

Ickes told the Senate's Truman committee that in return for "enormous investments and risks which we alone have assumed," the nation should be accorded "a permanent peace-time share of the oil and products to be produced upon terms commensurate with the magnitude of the contribution which this government has made."

The project consists of experimental drilling, a pipeline from Ft. Norman to White Horse, Canada, an oil refinery at White Horse, and roads and other facilities being built by a Canadian oil company.

In an open letter to members of Congress, Whitney said "we urge you to appropriately amend provisions of House Resolution 3477, which, if they become law, would forbid the use of subsidies or price supports in the nation's food production and market."

Declaring he represented "the collective opinion of 20,000 bread-winning consumers whose livelihood depends upon their wages from the railroad industry," President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen declared today "subsidies, used with intelligent discretion, are at this stage of our fight against inflation, economically sound and therefore good public policy."

In an open letter to members of Congress, Whitney said "we urge you to appropriately amend provisions of House Resolution 3477, which, if they become law, would forbid the use of subsidies or price supports in the nation's food production and market."

DUKE AND DUCHESS ARRIVE IN FLORIDA

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrived in Miami today perturbed over reports the Duke is dissatisfied with his office of Royal Governor of the Bahamas.

"I don't know how that report could have started," said the former King of England, as his American-born Duchess listened aboard the Pullman observation car that brought them from Washington.

"It is very wrong. I am quite satisfied and very interested in the colony."

The Duke requested no questions be asked about the recent trial of Alfred De Marigny, who was acquitted of a charge of murdering Sir Harry Oakes.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Second Lt. Harold E. Vandayburg of Route 2, Granville, O., received the air medal from Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney for 25 operational flights in the Southwest Pacific.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Robert C. Bowman, flying student from Canton, Ohio, and his civilian instructor, Fred G. Howe of Miami, were killed as their training plane crashed near Riddle Field. Bowman is survived by his widow and son at Canton, where the body was sent.

ALLIES ADVANCE AGAIN IN ITALY

Reds Shift Attack Against Germans Inside Bend Of Dnieper River

By RICHARD McMURRAY

By The Associated Press

The Russians mounted a new offensive thrust against Krivoi Rog, inside the Dnieper Bend, to divert German power. Moscow said Nazi resistance collapsed south of Kremenchug and that other Soviet columns were gaining southwest of Dnepetrovsk and in the Rechitsa area of White Russia. Berlin reported a new Russian landing in the Crimea south of Kerch.

Advance in Italy

Plunging forward four miles in the mountainous central sector of Italy, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army has seized two more towns overlooking an additional stretch of the main road to Rome and moved into position from which to launch a full-blown offensive against the enemy's winter defenses, Allied headquarters said today.

San Pietro Avellana, 10 miles due west of Agnone and only five miles east of an important junction of highways leading to the Italian capital, was scooped up along with Vastogiardi, to the southeast of San Pietro Avellana, in the Montgomery advance, made despite heavy rains drenching the entire battlefield.

Germans Fall Back

Falling back before the onslaught, the Germans were firing the towns of Alfedena and Castel di Sangro in apparent determination to leave no shelter when they are forced to give up those places.

Alfedena is three miles west of a fork in the central road to Rome and Castel di Sangro two miles northeast of the fork on the branch leading to the Rome-Pescara highway.

Allied forces were approaching the fork from two directions, from the southeast on from Rionero, and from the west in the direction of Agnone, which the Eighth Army took Saturday after ironing out an eight-mile deep enemy salient.

Communications Bombed

In the air, American twin-engined Mustangs rained bombs on an 18-acre area at the much-bombed railway and seacoast town of Civitavecchia, 40 miles northwest of Rome, smashing two quays, sinking a 100-foot vessel in the harbor and demolishing many buildings.

It was estimated 10 German divisions now were defending the positions along the Garigliano and Sangro rivers, which prisoners and deserters continued to describe as the enemy's "winter line."

THE WAR TODAY

So Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, our commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, meant business when about a fortnight ago he announced to the world at large, both friends and foes: "Our time has come to strike; henceforth we propose to give the Jap no rest anywhere."

He wasn't slow in implementing this challenge. Our great bombers started ranging the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, with devastating results, and today United States marines and army units are ashore on Makin and Tarawa atolls in the Gilbert group—our first invasion north of the equator—engaged in heavy battles with the Japs.

The ultimate objective of this new offensive is the capture of the island of Truk, Japan's great Naval and Air base, close to 1500 miles west of the Gilbert and Marshall Islands. At this base the Japs maintain a large fleet—the biggest sea-unit outside Nipponese home waters.

Reduction of Truk likely will mean the biggest naval engagement of the war. A clash with the Mikado's fleet is something we have been seeking for a considerable time now, but the Japs have avoided it. As we close in on them, however, their alternative is to fight or to run away and thereby permit us to crack the main defensive ring southeast of Japan.

This new offensive in the Gilberts undoubtedly will be coordinated with the attack on Rabaul, another strategic Jap Naval and Air base, on the northern tip of New Britain Island. If we are successful in both these ventures, we shall have severed the Japanese defenses in this whole area and moved our own bases well forward toward Truk and Japan itself.

Of course, this is just the beginning of an offensive which has far to go, and we shouldn't expect it to achieve all its objectives in the immediate future. However, it certainly is heartening to see our forces in the Pacific, and especially our navy, reach that point of strength where we can carry the war to the enemy without cessation. When you stop to think what happened to our fleet at Pearl Harbor, the present operations speak volumes for our power of recovery.

From now on our offensive in the Pacific may be expected to swell steadily until it reaches its climax. At the same time we must remember that we can't throw everything we should like to immediately into the war against the Japanese.

Before we can go all out against the Mikado's forces we must smash the Germans. Once we have done that job—and it's well on its way now—we shall be able to release terrific striking power against the Orient in the colossal Anglo-American Navies and Air fleets.

23 MORE NAMES ON SUNNYSIDE SERVICE FLAG

Names Embroidered on Flag For First World War; Both in Auditorium

Two service flags hang on opposite walls of Sunnyside School auditorium. On one are the 91 names of Sunnyside alumni who fought in World War I. There are two gold stars on the flag—for Paul Hughey and Clarence Hard.

The flag was made by the Sunnyside Red Cross surgical dressing unit 25 years ago. Each soldier is represented by a blue star on a white background. It was dedicated when the World War II service flag was dedicated. Later the 91 names were embroidered in white on the wide red border.

There are two gold stars on the World War II service flag as well—for Charles Stewartson and Harold LeFever.

On the flag, the 230 names are embroidered in blue on a heavy white satin background. Next week, it is planned to send the flag to Columbus to have 23 more names embroidered on it. These names are:

Edward DeWeese, William Hatfield, John Anderson, Donald Shaffer, Herbert Plymire, Percy Barger, Darrell Hidy, Joe Tillet, Ronald Morgan, Walter Cooper, Elmer Judy, Edward Ackley, Morgan Yahn, Paul Dett, Hugh Robinett, Charles Laufer, William Hart, Roy Vincent, Esco Bennett, Thomas Cartwright, Harold Knisley and Clarence Christman.

Miss Agnes Kerrigan, who retired as a teacher two years ago after having started most of the boys represented on both flags in school, has undertaken most of the task of compiling the lists and getting the flags made and names embroidered on them. With more boys going into the service, she expressed the hope that their families or friends would call her attention (phone 23534) and indicated that additional names would be added from time to time.

Following are the names on the first World War service flag:

George Rhoads, Walter Swartz, Findley Sprague, Frank Thompson, Frank Wyatt, Worley Van Gundy, Milton Wetzell, Frank Rowan, Harold Hukill, John Cartwright, Howard Harper, George Godfrey, Allie DeWitt, Roy Sprague.

Walter Whaley, Harry Swartz, Ralph Sleich, Edwin Turnpseed, Carl Whitte, Lawson Rhoads, Glenn Brock, Robert Dunn, Irving Isbell, Arthur Silcott, William Markley, John Dunn, Fred Van Gundy.

Hughey Backenstoe, Cecil Baughn, Lee Barker, Ernest Conner, James Cheek, Isaac Cartwright, Mitchell Dunn, Clarence Dietz, Wilbur Gilles.

Which would she have chosen?

Change is inevitable. We know not what the morrow may bring. This realization should not disturb our enjoyment of living today. It should serve well by reminding us that seemingly every day experiences to which we have become accustomed will some day form the golden fabric of a comforting and sustaining mental force... our memories.

Selfishness vs. Patriotism

In the last issue of the magazine, Newsweek, there appeared an institutional advertisement from the Warner and Swasey Company, an important and reliable industrial concern, which carried a warning so logical, clear and sound that we are carrying its message here for the benefit of readers who will appreciate the valuable information given as well as the good sense of the sentiment expressed.

Under the title "Is This What Our Sons Are Fighting For?" the editorial matter in the advertisement was as follows:

"Sure, more money for everybody would increase costs and prices, and bring inflation, but other people are getting theirs and I want mine."

So $18,000,000,000.00 is added to purchasing power in one year, prices go up, and the inflation that can wreck this nation is on its way.

"I want mine, and if I don't get it, I won't work. War or no war, I'll do what I please."

So 22,400,000 hours of production have been lost in the first five months of this year. Experts say that even in the hours worked our industrial output per man is only 70 percent of what it could and should be.

"This government job is the best I ever had—it gives me more power, and I enjoy that—and I'm going to keep it. What difference does one more job make when the country is spending billions?"

So we add 2,000,000 government civilian jobs since 1939, at a cost of $5,000,000,000.00 a year (2,000,000 civilians, remember, and 2,000,000 are the equivalent of 153 armored divisions)—and the inflation that will ruin everyone is helped along.

Greed and stupidity. They are making the war last longer which means they are costing American lives; they are making the war cost billions more, and you and your children are going to pay those needless billions in a permanent lower standard of living.

It would take only a little selfishness on the part of everyone—only a little understanding of the rights of others—to stop this stupid greed. And we had better learn that selfishness and understanding, before inflation ruins the country, before it is too late.

Satisfying a Desire

We noticed a story in a newspaper the other day, telling of a shabbily dressed woman with a shawl over her head who went into a fashionable jewelry store and asked the price of a wrist watch set with rubies. It was a couple of hundred dollars. She forthwith pulled out a large mass of bills and counted off the money.

The newspaper then recounted that the store manager had said this was nothing new. Whereas before the war 90 percent of the business was what he called "the carriage trade," now only 10 percent

Hints on Etiquette

Don't blurt out unpalatable truths, especially if you can't take it yourself. The odd part of it is that the person who "must tell the truth even if it hurts," seldom can hear such truths about himself without losing his temper.

Today's Horoscope

Dexterity, shrewdness, deep concentration and a liking for precision in work are the keynotes to your character if this is your birthday. You are prudent and inclined to be concerned about the troubles of others. You are esteemed by all who know you. In the early hours of the morning, if you have left a door unlatched and wish to fasten it, do so cautiously; otherwise you might stub your toe or break a window pane. Soon after 12 noon your enterprise should be recognized or rewarded. Keep your faith in human nature this evening, regardless of having to listen to a sordid story about someone you trusted. Late this evening you may overcome an obstacle by walking around it. Don't start a heated discussion before bedtime.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. From the chase after a greased pig at county fairs when the winner literally "brought home the bacon."
2. The aardvark, an earth pig which burrows in the ground, feeding entirely on ants.
3. Time flies.

falls in that class. The rest is made up of customers like this woman, who never before entered the store. The war has brought her money, and all that she can think of to buy, is luxuries like this watch. Or she may have had experience with Nazi looting and wants to put some of her savings into small articles of worth.

Many people will be dismayed at such extravagance, and think it dangerous to the community. But is it? Of course she would do far better to put her money into War Bonds. But such startling expenditures really do no great harm. They do not, like panic hoarding of necessities, force the prices up for articles that everybody must have.

But such lavish expenditures suggest that perhaps some local committees selling War Bonds have left a rich field untilled.

Crooked Thinking

It has been said countless times that the strikes in war industries of this nation were the result of labor leadership and did not represent the will of the individual workman. The coal miners have proved that theory doesn't hold water. And the railroad workers threaten to follow suit.

It gives one a sick feeling to read the headlines, "60 U. S. Bombers and 600 Fliers Lost in Record Attack," "Miners' Strike Spreads," "Strike Paralyzes Shipyard," "Walkout Closes Steel Furnace."

There is something wrong with the thinking of any man on the home front who enjoys all the blessings of personal liberty, and then strikes in wartime instead of staying on his job and backing the men on the war front who risk their lives to preserve the liberty he enjoys.

Protein Breakfast Is Best Energizer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE SCIENTIFIC application of dietetics involves not only what is in the meal, but how much of each ingredient and when the meal is taken. During war times nutrition experts have been experimenting to find out which meal pattern will give the worker the most energy.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Leaving out the minerals and vitamins which do not concern us in this discussion—the three elementary substances in a diet are the carbohydrates, the fats and the protein.

The carbohydrates are sugars and starches and you get them mostly from vegetables, bread, sugar and fruits. The fats are in many vegetables, but the principle source is what is attached to meat, and also butter and cream. Protein is in some vegetables—peas and beans have a good deal—but vegetable protein is not easily digested or absorbed and our best source of protein is meat and milk.

Use of Different Substances

What these substances do when they get in the body is to furnish energy and replace tissue. They all do both of these to a certain extent. Any overweight person can tell you that fat is converted into tissue, and when he starves himself to reduce he burns his own fat to produce energy. But fat is a slow burner, and is not a good energizer. The question arises as to whether protein or carbohydrate is the fastest and best energizer.

Now it is important that workers in industrial plants should get energy quickly at the right time. To that end experiments have been done giving a person only one of the three ingredients at a meal and seeing how his efficiency works out.

High Protein Breakfast

In general it has been found that if the worker gets a high protein meal at breakfast he does better than under any other system. This means eggs, milk and meat rather than buckwheat cakes and syrup.

A worker eating a high protein breakfast can go from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. with hardly any feeling of fatigue. If he does the buckwheat cakes and syrup stunt he gets tired about 10 a.m.

If he wants to spare his protein reserve energy, the worker can give himself a jolt with a little quick acting and quickly absorbed carbohydrate. Many industrial plants supply mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunches. It is the secret of the efficiency of the mid-morning visit to the soda fountain.

Supplement with Carbohydrate

In other words, start yourself out with protein and keep it supplemented by carbohydrate during the day.

The reason the high protein meal keeps the energy up so long is fairly easy to understand. Fat, as we said, is burned slowly so a preponderantly fat meal is a sluggish carbohydrate, on the contrary, goes too fast. But the protein stays in there pitching until mid-afternoon.

These researches bring medical science close to practical life, as has been the trend for many years. If the industrial worker will follow this advice—in other words, if he really wants to attain a maximum degree of efficiency—the increase in our war effort will be evident by just so much.

CHAPTER "TWENTY-ONE"

SHE HAD just gotten into the office when Mr. Slade sent for her. "Hop over to the station, Miss Kinnan, and see if you can get me a drawing room on the sleeper to St. Louis for tonight. Don't take a chance on the telephone."

It was raining hard that morning and Beth had worn a beret and her old raincoat. Her silky ash hair clung to her cheeks and she couldn't have felt more bedribbled than when she went into the station and made her way, through crowds being disgorged from incoming trains, toward the ticket window.

She was edging around a family, complete with children, luggage, bird-cage and portable baby carriage, when she found her path obstructed by a gentleman who was totting two handsome calfskin bags.

"Sorry," she said, stepping aside agilely, only to trip over the portable baby carriage, losing her balance. Down she went. Umbrella and handbag flew out of her hands. Her beret slipped over her eyes. She thought, I must look very prepossessing!

A pair of hands in neat pikskin gloves lifted her easily to her feet. Someone chuckled.

Beth said coldly, "No one is very graceful falling over a baby carriage."

"No one but you, Miss Beth Kinnan," an easy voice answered.

Beth collected her wits and got the hat out of her eyes.

"Mr. Archer!" The pleasure in her voice was spontaneous.

"This is the nicest thing that ever happened to me in Washington," he said, adding conviction with his warm smile. "And I've been here many times since last we met."

"Have you?" she asked, trying to tuck up her hair, which was beginning to curl winsomely under the old beret. She thought, "There are some men before whom you want to look your best, and he's one of them."

She noticed his necktie, a dark maroon against fine linen, and his rough tweed suit, the set of his hat above, temples only slightly silvered.

"I sometimes thought I'd ring up Slade and perhaps be lucky enough to get you on the telephone."

"Why?" It slipped out before she was aware of it.

"I thought perhaps you'd take pity on me and dine with me."

Beth thought of all the men like Dennis Archer, who had, according to the newspaper columnists, more invitations than they could accept.

"I would have," she added, astonished at her own boldness, and then added, "I'd have liked to tell you how grateful I am for what you did for me, and how much I like Washington."

The traffic moved about them while they made a small island of two in its center.

"I'd like to hear how much you like Washington, but I don't want you to think about being grateful. Can we do it tonight?"

"Do what?" Beth asked, wondering if she had on any lipstick. "Dine together. Look here," he said boyishly, as he got a small notebook out of his pocket. "I'll call for you wherever you say at seven and then we'll go wherever you like. Are you on?"

Beth hesitated. What would Andrea think? She didn't linger over that for very long. She hesitated a little longer, thinking that her old gray crepe was hardly gala enough but, after a minute, she said, "I'm on. You tell me about Pennington and I'll tell you about Washington."

She gave him her address. "Fine. I'll be there with bells on at seven. And now where are you going?"

Beth laughed. "I'd almost forgotten. I've got to get into that string at the ticket office. I'm here to get tickets for Mr. Slade."

"That's as good a reason as any," he said, walking toward the window with her, "but I think that was just an excuse of my kindly fates. I've thought about you many times, Miss Kinnan, and wished something like this could happen. I refuse to think this meeting is a simple coincidence."

Beth gave him an arch glance from her gray eyes. "I've heard about your famous charm, Mr. Archer, and now I see it working."

"And I've only begun, Miss Kinnan."

Beth was beginning to see why Andrea had said a man like Dennis Archer was what she needed. In less than ten minutes he made her forget she was a drab girl in a rainy day outfit, made her feel that she was an attractive girl. No small miracle.

He said, "Let me get those tickets for you" and, when they were gotten, he took her back to her office in a taxi.

Just before she got there, she said, "You know Andrea is here?"

"Is she?" She couldn't tell whether he was merely polite or interested.

"She's living with me," she said—and waited.

He said, "That must be nice for both of you," and repeated for the third time that he'd call for her promptly at seven.

That day Beth took three telephone messages and garbled them, had to do over two letters, and still refused to admit that she was excited about the coming evening.

A portion of her mind over which she seemed to have no conscious control went about preparing for that evening.

At half-past four, when the office closed, she found herself taking a taxi to a little shop she knew in F street, where she bought herself a black wool dress, a two-piece affair, with little sequin butterflys marching down the front of the jacket. A dress like the called for a special hat. So, with no thought of cost, Beth allowed herself to be persuaded into buying a black velvet calot with a huge, saucy bow. And then discovered that she could have her hair and nails done and be home in time to get into her new finery before Dennis came.

What would happen when Andrea discovered that Beth was going to dine with Dennis was a crisis that she decided to meet when the time came.

She hoped that Andrea would be dating Harry Cole, or spending the evening with Eunice, but Andrea was not.

She burst in on Beth at the moment when Beth was darkening her brows with an eyebrow pencil, a towel over her shoulders of her new frock.

"Well!" Andrea stood in the doorway, wearing her bathrobe, preparing, Beth saw with relief, for a sojourn in the tub. "What goes on here? Dating J. Edgar Hoover, or who? You look scrumptious, gal!"

Beth got a grip on herself. "I'm dining with Dennis Archer," she said. "I met him today."

"Dennis! Beth! No! He's coming here? But, darling—"

"He's coming here." Beth said slowly, clearly, "to take ME to dinner."

"I'm coming, too, Beth. I'll be ready . . ."

Beth caught her by her flying skirts. "Didn't you hear me, Andy? I'm the girl with the date tonight. Not you, pet."

Andrea couldn't believe her ears. "Does he know I'm here?" she asked in a small voice.

"He does." Beth pulled her hat over the soft crown of her hair, dropped the towel and picked up her bag and gloves as the bell pealed below. "But you're not invited tonight. Goodnight, dear."

Andrea's mouth was open, but no sound came from it.

Money Takes Back Seat in Social Whirl

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK—Gotham's society 400 is still the 400 despite war, but not so with the town's glamor-and-glitter Cafe Society.

And the two "societies" are still far apart.

On the surfaces there have been changes in the New York-Palm Beach-Newport elite circles, but underneath the blue blood code is unshaken. Though night club palor, a checkbook and a penchant for spending will get you by the plush rope in most of the over-crowded 52nd Street niteries where Cafe Society dwells, your family tree still counts with the old guard society leaders.

A lack of male escorts sent most of the younger girls scurrying back to college but weekends still find them on 52nd Street. Their escorts, though, are servicemen from all over the world and are not of the playboy variety. Shimmering evening dresses are few and far between, champagne corks are not popping and there is a noticeable absence of orchids.

Mass Debut

Though a mass debut introducing more than 100 socially prominent girls is scheduled (their parents are putting the cost of individual parties into war bonds), lavish debuts are out.

Nancy Leeds, heiress to the $40,000,000 tin fortune cancelled her debut until the war is won and her dad, once owner of the second largest yacht in the world and now a Chief Petty Officer in the Navy returns to civilian life.

One of the biggest society publicity build-ups came to a halt with the temporary shelving of the annual glamor-girl selection which helped bring fame to Brenda Frazier, Oona O'Neill and Gloria Baker Topping. Ruth Carter, daughter of Amon Carter of Fort Worth, Texas, it is believed, would have been the outstanding candidate for the title this year.

For the "strictly debutante" girls only two dances are scheduled—the Mayfair Assembly and the Junior Assembly dances.

The real old guard members are generally not known, publicly and most prefer to remain so, but the social leaders remain essentially the same. Some like Mrs. Junius Morgan, active in the Navy League, Mrs. Winthrop Aldrich, in China Relief, and Mrs. Lytle Hull, President of the Musicians Emergency Fund, are well known benefactors and are setting the pace for others with time and unlimited finances to contribute even greater individual effort in war work.

While there has been an influx of moneyed refugees, who are being entertained in the "artist circles" they are not being absorbed into cream society.

"Ten years ago," says one social leader, "people were taken into society because they had money, but today once more it's the person who counts and their background is more important than ever."

College Touch Found by WACs in Training Camps

Life in the WAC is much like that of dormitory life in American schools and colleges. The WAC finds that her barracks are similar to dorms, that social life is full of shows and dances such as are found on any university campus.

The WAC "dorm" is supplied with comfortable beds, plenty of bathtubs and mirrors and special rooms with laundry and pressing facilities. During off-duty hours or after classes Wacs congregate in the barracks and start up the traditional college "bull" sessions with participants sitting or reclining on their beds with knitting or sewing jobs on their laps.

If their time off is more than a few minutes, Wacs may go over to the homey, attractive "day rooms" where they may read, talk, and write letters. Service clubs on the post provide refreshments and a place to entertain guests or dates. Both day rooms and service clubs are very similar to dormitory lounges and serve the same purpose.

Sports, parties and seeing interesting things are listed highest among the off-the-post fun that most Wacs seek when their classes are over and they have a pass into the nearest town. They also attend vocational classes, lectures, educational pictures and movies and often take extra courses in languages and radio code.

Regular church services are held at every training center and Army post and long lines of soldiers and Wacs line up before the camp chapels for Protestant, Catholic or Jewish services.

New friends, travel, new experiences and education are all included in the college-like life of every Wac. Unlike college however, Wacs have a chance in the service of their country not only to learn but to put their knowledge and training to work for Uncle Sam.

At Last--Irish Coach Admits Team is Great

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(P)—Well, Mr. Leahy, you look unusually chipper today. Would you care to admit officially that Notre Dame is great?
Frank: "Perhaps."
OK, say it.
Frank: "The fighting spirit the boys showed in coming from behind to beat the Seahawks has made me overwhelmingly proud of them."
Yes, go on, Mr. Leahy.
Frank: "We met such teams as Georgia Tech, Michigan, Navy, Army, Northwestern and the Seahawks—and we dumped them. You really have to give the boys a world of credit."
We're tapping our foot, Mr. Leahy.
Frank: "Great Lakes is going to be tough this week."
Let's not change the subject.

Frank: "All right then. Any team that can come from behind like Notre Dame did Saturday deserves to be called great. My boys showed the fighting qualities of true champions."
That's it! You can stop right there. Fans have been waiting for that admission all season. The floor is yours.
Frank: "The Seahawks used some plays they never showed our scouts. One surprise was that we both used one identical play. It was a spread, three men in the flank, two to block when the other took a pass. We were smothered trying it. But the Seahawks gained eight yards. Ha, ha."

Wasn't it quite a decision to make when you sent Fred Earley in to blockkick those necessary extra points. He missed 3-for-3 against Northwestern, you know.
Frank: "There was no decision to make. Freddy was my boy, and that's that. He had been worrying all week about missing those kicks, and I merely told him to quit getting upset. He looked good in practice and there never was a question in my mind that he wouldn't make good on those points which finally decided the game."

"But Great Lakes Saturday... I think they'll be plenty tough."
Michigan's victory over Ohio State and Purdue's win over Indiana gave those two teams the co-championship of the Western Conference as the Big Ten football season ended Saturday. College football in the Midwest will bow out for 1943 this Saturday when the Irish play the blue-jackets at Great Lakes and the Iowa Seahawks meet Minnesota at Minneapolis.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—AP—Advancing about 2 cents in excessive buying, rye led another upturn in grain prices today. Wheat was strong despite considerable profit-taking and the December contract went to a new high since 1925, May to a peak since 1929 and July to best levels since 1928.
The strength in rye was attributed mainly to the fact that this grain is selling below parity, the point at which ceilings may be established. Good commercial demand was the primary support for wheat. Although the December delivery was firm, oats tended to lag behind other grains. Barley was firm.
At the close wheat was 1/2¢ higher, December $1.62 1/2, rye was up 1/2¢, 23¢, December $1.17 1/2, oats were ahead 1/2¢, December 78¢, and barley gained 1/2¢, December $1.20 1/2.

Youth Arrested After Dead Girl in Car All Day

AUTOPSY SHOWS DRUG IN BODY OF YOUNG GIRL

Albert Hawkins Takes Body Of Companion To Her Home in Atlanta

A 17-year-old youth who sat in an automobile all day Sunday beside the lifeless body of his 15-year-old girl companion was being held in the Pickaway County jail today for questioning, after an autopsy performed on the girl's body showed the presence of a drug in her stomach.

The boy is Albert O. Hawkins, of Washington C. H., who has been employed with the pipeline construction crew near Lancaster recently, and who was placed on probation in the Juvenile Court here last May after theft of an automobile.

The girl was Gladys Zimmerman, daughter of Harry Zimmerman, of Atlanta, and, according to the officers, the autopsy showed her to be an expectant mother.

The extraordinary case came to the attention of the Pickaway County Sheriff, Charles Radcliff, about 6:15 P. M. Sunday, when Hawkins, himself apparently under the influence of a drug, took the body of his companion to her home, and turned it over to her father.

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower was called into the case by reason of the fact that the girl died, according to Hawkins, in his car at the roadside park on U. S. 22 immediately west of Compton Creek near Johnsons Crossing, about 9 A. M. Sunday, and he had remained in the car in the roadside park throughout the day before driving to the home of her father. Sheriff Icenhower assisted in the investigation Sunday night, and Monday morning he and Prosecutor John B. Hill went to Pickaway County to continue the inquiry, and probably bring Hawkins back to the Fayette County jail.

In the meantime a post mortem examination was held at the Hill Funeral Home in Williamsport, by Dr. George Heffner, Pickaway county physician, and another physician, and the presence of a drug was found in the girl's stomach, officers said.

When Hawkins was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Vernon Pontious, of Pickaway County, at the Zimmerman home, he was very much under the influence of a drug, the officer reported, and was hardly able to stand.

He told officers that he had been working on the pipeline near Lancaster, and enroute to this city Saturday evening, stopped in Atlanta and picked up the girl and brought her to Washington C. H., where they remained until about midnight.

Purchasing sandwiches at the B. & B. Restaurant around midnight, they drove to the roadside park near Compton Creek, five miles east of Washington C. H., he said, and both went to sleep.

He said he awoke at 8:30 Sunday morning, and told his companion he had to fix a flat tire, and that she talked with him about the tire.

He further stated that it was nearly an hour before he made repairs of the tire, removing a nail from it, and that when he opened the door of the car he found the girl was dead.

His story about what happened during the day was not very coherent, officers said, except that he sat in the car with the dead girl throughout the day, and finally decided he would take her body home, which he did.

Officers believe that there may be further information in connection with the girl's death than has come to light, and that it is possible the girl died sometime during the night and that Hawkins was under influence of the drug for many hours.

It was made clear that Hawkins, by reason of the circumstances surrounding the girl's death, will be questioned closely, although no charges have been filed against him.

One story told by Hawkins was that he tried to start his car and found the battery had run down. Sheriff Radcliff said investigation indicated that the battery was all right.

It is expected that further questioning will bring out details not yet disclosed.

In the meantime contents of the girl's stomach was sent to Columbus to determine the nature of the drug.

Unconfirmed reports stated that tablets containing a drug were found by the officers. Meanwhile the girl's body remains at the Hill Funeral Home in Williamsport awaiting funeral arrangements.

Tax rates in Great Britain range from 32 1-2 per cent on the first $660 of taxable income to 97 1-2 per cent in the highest brackets.

FIGHTS IN CONGRESS POSTPONED BY DEATH OF TWO LAWMAKERS

force a showdown soon on its move to strip OPA of coal and oil price controls and turn them over to Interior Secretary Harold Ickes who has gone on record for increases for both.

4. Tax-troubled lawmakers turned with new intensity to their review of war appropriations as a result of the army's voluntary decision to return $13,000,000,000 in unneeded funds.

With the subsidy row capturing top-billing for the day, Secretary of the Navy Knox, War Production Chief Donald Nelson and OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, a coalition of Republicans and farm state Democrats is standing firm against offers of a compromise. Administration supporters, concede privately the bill will pass but they express hope consumer option will block overriding of the anticipated presidential veto.

And there is little doubt that the tax bill—only a faint echo of the treasury's call for more monies—will be passed by the House sometime this week. It then would go to the Senate's Finance committee whose chairman, Senator George (D., Ga.) has expressed belief the administration's bid for ten and a half million dollars will find no more favor there than in the House.

4TH WAR LOAN DRIVE TO OPEN ON JANUARY 18

Quota Too High in Last Drive for County, Hill Says

With the Fourth War Loan drive in the offing—scheduled to begin January 18—F. E. Hill, chairman of the Fayette County War Finance Committee, ventured a cautious prediction that the county would go over the top on its quota if—

He qualified his statement by saying that John J. Rowe, chairman of the Third Ohio Area, had stated that quotas had been set too high for this area. Hill quoted Rowe as saying "I'll see that some adjustment in quotas is made."

Commenting on the failure to meet the $1,018,000 quota for the Third War Loan drive, Hill said the total was set too high for the incomes here. No quota for Fayette County on the Fourth War Loan has been set.

The Fourth War Loan drive will run from January 18 to February 15. The three previous drives raised more than $50,000,000,000 and each reached its goal.

Secretary Morgenthau said state war financing committee have been strengthened and expanded, and millions of volunteer salesmen will carry the campaign to every individual investor in homes and plants throughout the nation.

Major emphasis will be placed on the $5,500,000,000 quota for individuals. During the period from January 18 to February 1 only sales to individuals will be reported to the treasury. Sales to other nonbanking investors will be included in the reports beginning February 1.

Morgenthau explained that this arrangement will not preclude the acceptance of subscriptions from other nonbanking investors at any time.

Securities to be offered will include Series 3 F and G savings bonds of 1965-70, two and one-fourth bonds of 1956-59 and seven-eighth percent certificates of indebtedness.

Commercial banks will be allowed to make a limited investment of their time deposits in the two and one-fourth and two and one-half percent bonds. A formula will be announced later. Banks were not permitted to subscribe in the last drive, although they participated in the first two.

The first war loan drive in December, 1942, with a goal of $9,000,000,000 raised $12,947,000,000; the second, in April, 1943, with a $13,000,000,000 goal, $18,555,000,000; the third, in September, 1943, with a $15,000,000,000 goal, $18,943,000,000.

business before it. One is its review of war appropriations, the pace of which has been stepped up by disclosure that the army is turning back $13,000,000,000 which it says it doesn't need this year. The other is the move to enact legislation to strip OPA of coal and oil price controls and turn them over to Interior Secretary Ickes, fuel coordinator.

But some of this legislation is expected to be held in abeyance for at least a day this week as a result of the death last night of Rep. J. William Ditter (R., Pa.) in an airplane crash near Columbia, Pa. The House usually adjourns for a day in tribute to a deceased member.

Rail Strike Threat

In the Senate, Sen. George To-day asked War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to head off a threatened strike of non-operating railway employees by adjustment of their wage dispute. There was possibility of intervention by Congress through a resolution proposed by E. N. Truman (D., Mo.) which would put Congress on record as endorsing the eight-cent-an-hour increase sought by the workers and disallowed by Economic Stabilizer Fred Vinson.

The measure, requires induction of pre-war fathers be delayed until the pool of non-fathers has been exhausted.

The Soldier Vote

Democratic opposition is developing in the Senate to the formation of a pending bill to facilitate absentee voting by members of the armed services in next year's general elections. Sen. Women of WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE

A Message from Your Governor

As Governor of Ohio, I deem it an honor to call special attention to the All-States WAC Recruiting Drive now in progress throughout the nation. It is my earnest hope that this State will contribute vitally to the success of this program.

The women of this country are making a necessary and valuable contribution to the winning of the war, both in the armed services and on the home front. This new call to service is a challenge to even greater participation. I am confident that the women of our State will answer this challenge and that they, together with our sons, will again write the name of this Commonwealth high upon the honor rolls of history.
